A postcard from LSBU alumni.....

Meet Amine, Internet and multimedia engineering, 2000

Before he was an SEO Consultant, he was an LSBU student.

- Name: Amine Dahimene
- Job title: Growth Advisor and Consultant
- Where I work: Currently freelancing for lots of interesting companies

"My course taught me internet technology, web development, website building and developing software using various programming languages.

To help improve my programming skills and gain industry experience, I completed a month-long placement with leading telecom company, Cerillion, during my second year.

My course prepared me well for working life and I found my first job very quickly. LSBU opened so many doors for me and it led me to a job I love.

My advice to you is....

Think big and act boldly. The greatest thing in this world is not where we are, but the direction in which we are moving".
